DESIGN & DEVELOP A LEARNING PROGRAMME

The art of designing and developing a learning programme within outcomes- based education and training involves identifying the outcomes to be achieved by the learner and then conducting all planning activities around these outcomes.

This means that all aspects of the Learning Programme - from the facilitation skills through to the assessment activities - have to be based on the learning outcomes of the programme.

The practitioner therefore requires in-depth knowledge and skills regarding the steps to follow in the planning process. This includes the vital issue of designing various learning materials which are outcomes-based and appropriate to the programme and its outcomes.

Furthermore, a wide knowledge of the various methods of conducting learning programmes is also required by the planner. In short, there are many issues which the learning programme and learning materials designer has to keep in mind.

This programme is aimed at providing appropriate theoretical and practical training interventions to enable individuals to effectively execute the activities related to planning a learning programme.

The programme comprises 2 unit standards totaling 25 credits on NQF levels 5 & 6, which are covered in a 4-day intensive small-group training intervention:

1. US123401 - Design Outcomes-based learning programmes (15 credits)
2. US123394 - Develop Outcomes-based learning programmes (10 credits)

Experienced facilitators conduct the workshops and the theoretical components are further enhanced by the introduction of many practical examples of the different duties required of the individuals who plan learning programmes. Delegates are required to bring along a learning programme from their own situation which can be utilized during the workshop

Issues addressed during the programme:

- Identifying outcomes
- Identifying stakeholders
- All aspects which have to be planned
- Copyright issues
- Evaluating existing learning materials
- Step by step development of learning materials
